

Coffman Honored with Tax Fighter Award

(WASHINGTON) — Rep. Mike Coffman (R-Aurora) has been honored by the National Tax Limitation Committee (NTLC) receiving their “Tax Fighter Award” for his record on tax and spending issues in the 111th Congress.

“I’m honored to be recognized by the National Tax Limitation Committee,” Coffman commented. “I will continue to oppose the big-government tax and spend policies pursued by Democrats in the 111th Congress, and continue to fight on behalf of U.S. taxpayers.”

Eligibility for the award is based on how Members of Congress vote on a variety of issues. The award is also based on support for making the 2001 and 2003 tax cuts permanent, eliminating the death tax and Alternative Minimum Tax, as well as combating the growth of federal spending.

“Mike Coffman has been a major asset to taxpayers across America during his congressional service,” commented NTLC President Lewis K. Uhler. “He has had the courage to challenge the orthodoxy of Washington spending and earmarks.”

Since 1975 the National Tax Limitation Committee, a 501(c)(4) grass roots taxpayer activist organization, has worked to limit taxes and spending and to reduce the size and scope of government at all levels. The NTLC has led the national movement for constitutional tax and spending limits at the state and federal levels. NTLC publishes a congressional scorecard at the conclusion of each Congress, as it has for more than a quarter-century.

Rep. Coffman receives the “Tax Fighter Award” from the National Tax Limitation Committee president Lewis K. Uhler on September 23, 2010.
